

Fees for professional services in the nearly five-year long Nortel bankruptcy have reached $1 billion, according to Diane Urquhart, a Toronto-based analyst who has been following the proceedings closely.

Fees for professional services in the nearly five-year long Nortel bankruptcy have reached $1 billion, according to Diane Urquhart, a Toronto-based analyst who has been following the proceedings closely.

NOVEMBER 25, 2013 9:48 AM

Fees for professional services in the nearly five-year long Nortel bankruptcy have reached $1 billion, according to Diane Urquhart, a Toronto-based analyst who has been following the proceedings closely.

Photograph by: NATHAN DENETTE, THE CANADIAN PRESS