EXPLANATORY NOTE

This Explanatory Note was written as a reader’s aid to Bill 14 and does not form part of the law. Bill 14 has been enacted as Chapter 7 of the Statutes of Ontario, 2014.

The Bill amends a number of Acts and enacts three new Acts. For convenience, the amendments are set out in separate Schedules. The commencement provisions for each of the Schedules are set out in the Schedules.

Assessment Act

Currently, subsection 3 (1) of the Assessment Act provides that certain types of real property are exempt from taxation under the Act. A new paragraph 7.2 exempts land that is used as a non-profit long-term care home, if the prescribed conditions are satisfied.

Broader Public Sector Accountability Act, 2010

The change made to the Broader Public Sector Accountability Act, 2010 in the Schedule reflects the amalgamation of the IESO and the OPA and their continuation as the IESO as made in Schedule 7, amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998.

building code act, 1992

Currently, under subsection 8 (2) of the Building Code Act, 1992, the chief building official must issue a permit unless any of the listed circumstances apply. New clause 8 (2) (b.1) adds the following circumstance: the Architects Act or the Professional Engineers Act requires that the construction of a building be designed by an architect or a professional engineer or a combination of both and the construction is not so designed.

Under subsection 15.11 (5) of the Act, any of the listed activities may only be engaged in by persons who have the qualifications and meet the requirements set out in the regulations to be a designer. New subsection 15.11 (8) exempts from that subsection a holder of any licence or certificate issued under the Architects Act or the Professional Engineers Act.

New paragraph 9.1 of subsection 34 (1) of the Act authorizes regulations requiring the construction of certain types of smaller buildings described in the Architects Act or the Professional Engineers Act to be designed by an architect or a professional engineer or a combination of both, even though those Acts do not require that they be so designed. Paragraph 10 of the subsection is amended to make the references to “architect” and “professional engineer” consistent with those references elsewhere in the Act.

Children's law Reform act

Section 35 of the Children's Law Reform Act is amended to replace descriptions of certain dates with the actual dates. In addition, section 38 of the Act is amended in order to refine the scope of the provincial court's powers in relation to contempt of its orders and to add a related transition provision.

The Commodity Futures Act is amended. Highlights of the amendments are as follows:

1. The definition of “market participant” in subsection 1 (1) of the Act is amended.
2. Changes are made with respect to the scope of compliance reviews under section 14.1 of the Act.
3. Section 59 of the Act is amended to expand the types of freeze directions that the Securities Commission may make and to add a test for continuing a freeze direction.

COMPULSORY AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE ACT

Currently, section 11 of the Compulsory Automobile Insurance Act provides that the Superintendent has the same investigatory powers in respect of the Facility Association as the Superintendent has in respect of insurers under the Insurance Act. Amendments are made to update cross-references to the Insurance Act.

Electricity Act, 1998

The Schedule amends the Electricity Act, 1998 by amalgamating the Independent Electricity System Operator (“IESO”) and the Ontario Power Authority (“OPA”) and by continuing them as the Independent Electricity System Operator (“IESO”). The board of directors of the IESO is required to ensure that there is an effective separation of functions and activities of the IESO relating to its market operations and its procurement and contract management activities. The IESO is prohibited from conducting itself in a manner that could unjustly advantage or disadvantage any market participant or any class of market participant. The board of directors is also required to ensure that confidentiality is maintained.

In the re-enacted section 6 of the Act, the objects of the IESO are set out. The IESO has the capacity, rights, powers and privileges of a natural person for the purpose of carrying out its objects, except as limited by the Act. The IESO's powers to borrow, invest its funds and to manage its financial assets, liabilities and risks are subject to such rules and restrictions as are prescribed.

The IESO is not an agent of the Crown and is composed of its board of directors. The board of directors is composed of the IESO's chief executive officer and between eight and 10 additional individuals appointed by the Minister of Energy. The board of directors appoints the chief executive officer.

The re-enacted sections 12 and 13 deal respectively with the duties of the directors and conflicts of interest for directors and officers. The IESO's board may establish policies, rules, guidelines and codes, but a provision of a policy, rule, guideline or code is void if it conflicts with the Act, the regulations or the IESO's by-laws. Subject to certain specified limitations, the board of directors may delegate its powers to a committee of the board or may delegate powers to manage the business and affairs of the IESO to one or more directors or to one or more officers of the IESO. Part XX of the Employment Standards Act, 2000, which deals with the liability of directors, does not apply to the directors of the IESO.

The board of directors of the IESO may make by-laws regulating the business and affairs of the IESO and, in particular, shall ensure that it maintains a by-law dealing with matters of corporate governance and structure. The amendment or repeal of this by-law is subject to certain specified restrictions.

The Minister of Finance, as authorized by an order of the Lieutenant Governor in Council and subject to specified restrictions, may purchase the securities of or make loans to the IESO.

At least 120 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, the IESO shall submit its proposed business plan for the fiscal year to the Minister for approval. The IESO shall, at least 60 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, submit its proposed expenditure and revenue requirements for the fiscal year and the fees it proposes to charge during the fiscal year to the Ontario Energy Board for review, but shall not do so until after the Minister approves the IESO's proposed business plan for the fiscal year. The IESO shall not, without the approval of the Board, establish, eliminate or change any fees it has established, or eliminate or change any fees established by a predecessor that remain in effect. The purposes for which the IESO may establish and collect fees are set out in the re-enacted section 25.1.

The IESO's board of directors is required to appoint one or more auditors to annually audit the IESO's accounts and transactions. Within 90 days after the end of each fiscal year, the IESO shall submit an annual report to the Minister, which report shall contain the IESO's audited financial statements. In addition, the Minister may require that the IESO submit other reports and information from time to time. The IESO is also required to provide the Ontario Energy Board and the Market Surveillance Panel with such information as they may require from time to time.

The re-enacted sections 25.8 to 25.10 deal with transitional matters resulting from the amalgamation of the predecessor IESO and the OPA and their continuation as the IESO. The transitional provision dealing with corporate matters, section 25.8, provides, among other things, that the predecessor IESO and the OPA cease to exist as entities separate from the IESO and all their rights, properties and assets become the rights, properties and assets of the IESO, as do all outstanding debts, liabilities and obligations of the predecessor IESO and the OPA. The members of the boards of directors of the predecessor IESO and the OPA cease to be members of their respective boards. The by-laws of the predecessor IESO are continued as the by-laws of the IESO. The IESO stands in the place of the predecessor IESO and the OPA with respect to any agreements, securities, approvals, permits and other instruments to which they were a party. Similarly, the IESO is a party to each ongoing proceeding to which the predecessor IESO or the OPA were a party at the time of the amalgamation. Section 25.9 deals with employment matters — employees of the predecessor IESO and the OPA become employees of the IESO. Transitional issues dealing with certain governance and other matters are dealt with in section 25.10.

The Schedule also amends Part II.2 of the Act, in part to reflect the amalgamation of the predecessor IESO and the OPA and their continuation as the IESO. References to the OPA are changed to the IESO throughout the Part.

There are numerous amendments to the Act to reflect the amalgamation and the continuation of the IESO. The regulation-making authority in section 114 is amended to reflect amendments in the Schedule. A new provision, subsection 114 (9), is added to permit the Lieutenant Governor in Council to make regulations governing transitional matters necessary or desirable to facilitate the amalgamation of the predecessor IESO and the OPA and the merging or segregation within the IESO of any duties, functions or activities of the predecessor IESO and the OPA.

A complementary amendment will be made to the Broader Public Sector Executive Compensation Act, 2014, contained in Bill 8 (Public Sector and MPP Accountability and Transparency Act, 2014), if Bill 8 receives Royal Assent.

A separate amendment is made to section 25.35 of the Act. Currently, that section permits the Minister to direct the OPA to develop a feed-in-tariff program. The Schedule repeals subsection 25.35 (3) of the Act, which requires the Minister to issue, and the OPA to follow, directions that set out the goals relating to domestic content to be achieved during the period to be covered by the program.

Environmental Bill of Rights, 1993

The change made to the Environmental Bill of Rights, 1993 in the Schedule reflects the amalgamation of the IESO and the OPA and their continuation as the IESO as made in Schedule 7, amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998.

Schedule 9

Family Law Act

The Schedule amends the Family Law Act, primarily to establish processes for calculating and recalculating child support obligations administratively, without going to court. An existing regulation-making authority providing for the administrative recalculation of child support, enacted by the Family Statute Law Amendment Act, 2009 but not brought into force, is consequently repealed.

The administrative calculation of child support is set out in the re-enacted section 39 of the Family Law Act. If certain conditions are met, parents of a child may apply for the calculation of child support by a child support calculation service established by the Government (subsections (1), (2) and (3)). The conditions include a requirement that there not already be an enforceable child support obligation respecting the child under a court order or a domestic contract filed with the court. The parents of the child must provide specified information, including income information, to the service for the purposes of the calculation (subsection (4)). Child support amounts are calculated by the service in accordance with the child support guidelines, subject to the regulations, and the resulting child support is payable on a periodic basis (subsections (5) and (6)). On completing a child support calculation, the service sends a notice of calculation to the parents setting out, among other things, the child support payable and by whom (subsection (7)). The notice of calculation is to be treated as if it were a court order for the purposes of enforcement and recalculation (subsection (14)) and is enforceable by the Director of the Family Responsibility Office (subsection (15)). Section 39 also addresses the timing of the first payment under the notice of calculation (subsection (8)), and how errors respecting the amount payable under the notice or to whom may be corrected (subsections (9), (10), (11), (12) and (13)). Section 69 of the Act is amended to add subsections (5) and (6), which provide for various regulation-making authorities relating to the calculation of child support under section 39, including an authority to set fees for calculations as well as to exempt persons from their payment.

The administrative recalculation of child support is set out in the new section 39.1 of the Act. If any party to a court order for child support believes that the income information on which the order was based has changed, the party may apply for the recalculation of the child support by a child support recalculation service established by the Government (subsections (1) and (2)). Although section 39.1 refers only to orders, section 39.1 is also made to apply to the recalculation of child support amounts under notices of calculation under section 39 (by virtue of clause 39 (14) (c)) and under domestic contracts that are filed with a court (by virtue of the addition of clause 35 (2) (d)). The parties must provide specified information, including income information, to the service for the purposes of the recalculation (subsection (4)). If a party does not provide the required income information, the service may determine, in accordance with the regulations, an amount that is deemed to be the party's income for the purposes of the recalculation (subsection (5)). Child support amounts are recalculated by the service in accordance with the child support guidelines, subject to the regulations (subsection (6)). On completing a child support calculation, the service sends a notice of recalculation to the parties setting out, among other things, the recalculated child support payable and by whom (subsection (7)). However, if the difference between the current amount payable and the recalculated amount payable is less than an amount to be determined in the regulations, the child support payable remains unchanged (subsection (8)). In any other case, the recalculated amount is deemed to be the amount payable under the order once the first payment of the recalculated amount is due (subject to subsection 25.1 (5) of the Divorce Act (Canada), which applies to orders made under that Act, and which stays the effect of the recalculation if a party brings an application to vary before a court in response to the recalculation) (subsection (16)). The timing of the first payment of the recalculated amount is addressed in subsection (10), and subsections (11), (12), (13), (14) and (15) set out how errors respecting the recalculated amount or to whom it is payable may be corrected. Section 69 of the Act is amended to add subsections (7) and (8), which provide for various regulation-making authorities relating to the recalculation of child support under section 39.1, including an authority to set fees for recalculations as well as to exempt persons from their payment. A regulation-making authority is also included to provide for the automatic recalculation of recalculated child support amounts.

In addition to the amendments relating to the administrative calculation and recalculation of child support, section 46 of the Act is amended to replace descriptions of certain dates with the actual dates. Section 49 of the Act is amended in order to limit the scope of the provincial court's powers in relation to contempt of its orders under section 46 of the Act and to add a related transition provision.

Finally, a number of miscellaneous amendments are made to the Act. These include a clarification to the French version of the definition of "parent", and the addition of a definition of "regulations" and related amendments.

Schedule 10

Family Responsibility and Support Arrears Enforcement Act, 1996

The Schedule amends the Family Responsibility and Support Arrears Enforcement Act, 1996 in order to reflect amendments made by the Bill to the Family Law Act that establish processes for calculating and recalculating child support obligations administratively.

The amendments made to the Family Responsibility and Support Arrears Enforcement Act, 1996 provide for the enforcement of notices of calculations and of recalculated child support amounts by the Director of the Family Responsibility Office. To effect this, the definition of "support order" in subsection 1 (1) of the Act is amended to include notices of calculation under section 39 of the Family Law Act, and subsection 1 (4) is added to equate child support amounts recalculated under section 39.1 of the Family Law Act and support orders that have been changed.

As well, a number of miscellaneous amendments are made to the Family Responsibility and Support Arrears Enforcement Act, 1996. These include updating references to the Minister responsible for the administration of the Act and references to the Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation.

A new section 12.1 of the Land Transfer Tax Act sets out a general anti-avoidance rule that applies for the purposes of the Act and the regulations.

Generally, the rule provides for the determination of tax consequences as is reasonable in the circumstances in order to deny a tax benefit that would result, directly or indirectly, from an avoidance transaction or from a series of transactions that includes an avoidance transaction. (See subsection 12.1 (3) of the Act.) However, such a tax benefit would not be denied if it may reasonably be considered that the transaction would not result, directly or indirectly, in a misuse of the provisions of the Act or the regulations or in an abuse having regard to the provisions of the Act or the regulations read as a whole. (See subsection 12.1 (5) of the Act.)

Without restricting the generality of subsection 12.1 (3) of the Act, subsection 12.1 (6) provides examples of tax consequences that may be determined in order to deny a tax benefit.

If a person has received notice of an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment in respect of a transaction under this rule, another person may request that the Minister assess, reassess or make an additional assessment involving the application of subsection 12.1 (3) of the Act to that person in respect of the same transaction. (See subsection 12.1 (7) of the Act.)

The rule applies to transactions completed after May 1, 2014, including transactions that are part of a series of transactions that commenced on or before that day, and also applies to transactions completed on or before May 1, 2014 if they are part of a series of transactions that includes one or more transactions completed after that day. The amendments relate to how the definition of "spouse" in subsection 1 (1) of the Act applies in those provisions for the purpose of determining eligibility for benefits.

Administrators who made payments in specified circumstances before the amendments come into force are granted a discharge. In the case of payments under section 44, the discharge is granted to administrators who made payments before the day the amendments come into force. In the case of payments under section 48, the discharge is granted to administrators who made payments before October 31, 2012. The Act is amended to provide that no person has a claim against an administrator who made payments, or against the recipient of the payments, if specified circumstances exist.

Technical amendments re transfer of assets

Technical amendments are made to section 80.1 of the Act in respect of the transfer of assets between pension plans when a business has previously been sold. Currently, section 80.1 of the Act is to be repealed on July 1, 2015. The Schedule changes the repeal date to July 1, 2016. A consequential amendment is made to the Pension Benefits Amendment Act, 2010 in order to implement the new repeal date.

Conversions of single employer pension plans into jointly sponsored pension plans

Amendments to the Act provide for the conversion of a single employer pension plan into a jointly sponsored pension plan. A conversion may be implemented in either of two ways: through a transfer of assets and liabilities from the single employer pension plan to another pension plan that is a jointly sponsored pension plan or through amendments to the single employer pension plan itself. Conversion is available for public sector pension plans and other prescribed pension plans that provide defined benefits. Here are some details of the two types of conversion.

New section 80.4 of the Act governs a conversion that is implemented through a transfer of assets and liabilities from the single employer pension plan to another pension plan that is a jointly sponsored pension plan. Notice of a proposed conversion and transfer of assets must be given to the members, former members, retired members and other persons entitled to benefits under the single employer pension plan, to any trade union that represents members of the plan and to the Superintendent. The transfer of assets is not authorized unless the members, former members, retired members and other persons entitled to benefits consent to the conversion and transfer of assets, or are deemed in accordance with the regulations to have done so. The prior consent of the Superintendent to the transfer of assets is also required. The criteria to be considered by the Superintendent are specified. If any assets remain in the single employer pension plan after the transfer of assets to the jointly sponsored pension plan, the amount of the remaining assets (other than assets relating to defined contribution benefits) is deemed to be surplus under the single employer pension plan.

New section 81.0.1 of the Act governs a conversion that is implemented through amendments to the single employer pension plan itself. Analogous requirements for notice and consent apply with respect to this type of conversion. The criteria to be considered by the Superintendent are specified.

For both types of conversion, if the jointly sponsored pension plan is subsequently wound up and the money in the pension fund is not sufficient to pay all of the benefits for those members, former members, retired members and other persons who were entitled to benefits under the single employer pension plan, the employer is required to pay the amount of the shortfall related to those benefits into the pension fund. (See subsections 75.1 (1.1) and (1.2) of the Act.)

For a conversion that is implemented through a transfer of assets, if the employer subsequently withdraws as a participating employer in the jointly sponsored pension plan, the employer may be required to make a payment into the pension fund in prescribed circumstances for the benefit of the transferred members and other transferees. (See subsection 80.4 (18) of the Act.)

Both sections contain a provision conferring immunity on the Crown in specified circumstances in connection with a conversion. (See subsections 80.4 (20) and 81.0.1 (16) of the Act.)

Currently, subsection 2 (1) of the Taxpayer Protection Act, 1999 specifies that a member of the Executive Council shall not include in a bill a provision that increases a tax rate under a designated tax statute or establishes a new tax, unless a referendum authorizes the increase or new tax. New subsection 2 (11) of the Act creates an exception for any bill that receives First Reading in 2014 and that would amend subsection 3 (1) of the Taxation Act, 2007 to define the "middle tax rate" as 11.16 per cent, the "second-highest tax rate" as 12.16 per cent and the "second-lowest tax rate" as 9.15 per cent, and that would re-enact subsection 6 (1) with respect to the calculation of an individual's basic income tax for a taxation year ending after December 31, 2013.

Currently, subsections 2 (9) and (10) of the Act require the Minister, in certain circumstances, to provide a statement to the Assembly indicating when, in the Minister's opinion, it may be reasonable for one or more bills to be introduced that amend the Taxation Act, 2007 to reduce a corporation's basic rate of tax or to provide for the elimination of any tax rate increases described in paragraph 2 of subsection 2 (8). An amendment to subsection 2 (10) removes the requirement that the statement indicate when it may be reasonable for one or more bills to be introduced to provide for the elimination of any tax rate increases described in paragraph 2 of subsection 2 (8). A related amendment is made to subsection 2 (9).

That subsection is re-enacted to require registration certificate holders to give the Minister an information return as the Minister may require within the time period and in the form and manner as specified by the Minister.

Currently, under section 24, a person authorized by the Minister may stop and detain a vehicle and examine its contents if the authorized person has reasonable and probable grounds to believe that the vehicle contains evidence of a contravention of the Act. New subsection 24 (10.1) provides for the continued detention of a vehicle if the vehicle was used for the purposes of possessing or transporting tobacco in contravention of the Act and the tobacco exceeds a specified quantity. New subsection 24 (10.2) authorizes the impoundment of such a vehicle for seven days. New subsections 24 (10.3) to (10.13) provide various rules relating to the impoundment of the vehicle, including making it an offence to obstruct or interfere with a person authorized to detain a vehicle under subsection 24 (10.1).

Subsection 31 (1) of the Act currently imposes a penalty for the sale or delivery of a tobacco product in Ontario for resale without holding a subsisting wholesaler's permit. Amendments are made to the additional penalties that are calculated based on the type and quantity of tobacco product that is sold or delivered.

The fine under subsection 31 (2) of the Act for the sale or delivery of marked cigarettes or marked fine cut tobacco by a person without a wholesaler's permit is increased from $8 to $25 for each 200 cigarettes or 200 grams of marked fine cut tobacco.
